Preventing data loss is not easy. It requires more than technical and product expertise. It also requires a deep understanding of program objectives, data governance and data stewardship. Proofpoint Managed Information Protection delivers on all fronts. Our service provides you with a team that can help you optimize your technology investment and evolve your organization's data protection strategy.

Organizations often do not have the expertise or resources to go beyond identification and classification of their sensitive data assets. The Proofpoint Managed Information Protection team can be a trusted partner on your journey to protect against data loss. We will help you implement data protection policies as well as mitigate risks associated with threats to your data.

Rely on Our Expertise

We go beyond traditional staff augmentation. With our service, you get both expertise and action. Our team has extensive knowledge of exfiltration attempts worldwide. And we bring a deep understanding of industry requirements and regulations. Our team proactively builds and maintains data loss prevention (DLP) rules to support your program. We seek out and investigate anomalies, and we collaborate closely with your staff in event triaging. We also find the needles in the haystack and escalate them to you. This ensures that you can focus your time and efforts on the events that matter.

Ensure Operational Staffing Continuity

Staffing challenges extend beyond talent shortages. Our service model alleviates the impact of events like turnovers, vacations and leaves of absence. You will have consistent access to and support from our team. And our fixed-bid cost model ensures predictable budgeting. This allows you to better anticipate and plan for expenses.

Quantify the Value of Your Investment

Our team delivers alert analysis, identifies data usage trends and documents the proactive information protection measures that you have implemented. We also offer frequent updates, executive-level metrics and concrete evidence of the positive outcomes of your investment in information protection.

Our insights and reports keep you informed about your progress and milestones. You can share these with your board and other stakeholders as proof of value.

Advance the Performance of Third-Party Products

If you have not yet upgraded to the Proofpoint Sigma Information Protection platform, you can still benefit from our team's DLP expertise. We can also manage select Microsoft or Broadcom/Symantec DLP and cloud access security broker (CASB) products.

Benefit From Our Proven Managed Services Framework

Proofpoint Managed Information Protection is built upon the Proofpoint managed services framework. This structured, standardized approach supports effective and efficient comanagement of your information protection products. It helps to ensure your operations are well-maintained and that they are aligned to your program objectives.
